California Resources Corporation Announces $100,000 Donation to Southern California Wildfire Relief and Recovery Efforts

January 30, 2025

LONG BEACH, Calif., Jan. 30, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- California Resources Corporation (NYSE: CRC), an independent energy and carbon management company, today announced a total contribution of $100,000 to the California Community Foundation and the Los Angeles Fire Department Foundation to support wildfire relief and provision of recovery services to residents impacted by the recent California wildfires. The funds will be equally distributed between the two organizations.

“Our hearts go out to everyone affected by the devastating wildfires across Southern California,” said Francisco Leon, CRC’s President and Chief Executive Officer. “We are deeply grateful to the firefighters, first responders, and organizations working tirelessly to protect our communities and support relief and recovery efforts.”

The California Community Foundation will utilize the donation to assist families and individuals in rebuilding their lives, with a focus on housing, food, and other critical needs. The Los Angeles Fire Department Foundation will allocate the funds toward vital equipment, supplies, and support for the firefighters and first responders who work diligently to protect communities during these emergencies.

CRC also launched a company match campaign to support the American Red Cross, which offers critical aid such as food, shelter, emotional care, recovery planning, and financial assistance.
